五 、 混合題(素養題)(1 小題，每格 3 分，共 18 分)

Mark and Janet are talking about a lesson they just studied.

Mark: I was impressed with Malala’s bravery. After being shot and seriously wounded, she did not give up but continued delivering speeches to promote women’s right to be educated.

Janet: Me, too! Her story makes me think of a girl from Sweden called Greta Thunberg.

Mark: Who is she and how is she similar?

Janet: Greta learned about climate change in school and discovered that people were not taking this problem seriously.

Mark: Ah, so she was unhappy about what humans were doing to the environment, right? What action has she taken to warn people?

Janet: One day, she skipped her classes and arranged a sit-down protest in front of Sweden’s government office building, hoping that people would take notice.

Mark: Wow! That is quite an aggressive move. What else has she done to make changes?

Janet: She has also given speeches, persuading people that if they don’t change their behavior, the world may be destroyed in the future.

Mark: What she has done is so inspiring! Where did you hear Greta’s story? I’d also like to learn more about her.

Janet: I do a lot of research in my leisure time. Don’t you think our future will be better if there are more young people like Greta and Malala?
