Have you been collecting stickers to exchange __29__ a selection of LINE character tableware*? Several years ago, 7-11 stores in Taiwan first introduced __30__ magnets* and pins as free gifts for customers who buy a certain number of products. As time went by, it gradually became a __31__. Nowadays almost every convenience store in Taiwan gives away stickers __32__ buyers can exchange for free gifts. Some stores even cooperate with other companies to launch their own products, in order to gain the right* to print cartoon characters on the gifts or provide more gift choices to customers. These gifts may seem to be “free” __33__ you apparently can get them at no extra cost. In fact, you might be spending extra money for these stickers! When the clerk tells you that you can get another sticker __34__ spending only another ten or fifteen dollars, most of the time we'll choose to quickly buy something that's not really necessary, like a chocolate bar, just to collect __35__ sticker. In the end, your house may be full of free gifts which begin to seem unnecessary and even ridiculous.
