五、綜合測驗；一題兩分，共 20 分

1. People are often surprised when they hear about our favorite national holiday. As proud Mexicans, this holiday is of course the Day of the Dead, and trust me, we would rather __ (11) __ than __ (11) __ this party! Now, to those __ (12) __ have never heard of the Day of the Dead, the thought of celebrating death might sound a little weird. It might even make their hair __ (13) __! This is probably because most cultures tend to shy away from or even fear death. Here in Mexico, however, we are a people determined to embrace death as an important part of life. For us, the Day of the Dead is thus always a happy and __ (14) __ time. We light candles, sing songs, decorate graves, and stuff ourselves with great Mexican food. We also dress up __ (15) __ all kinds of costumes and dance like there's no tomorrow. Most importantly, we remember and honor the lives of the departed. That's what the Day of the Dead is all about!

六、閱讀測驗；一題兩分，共 10 分

1. One place that food lovers should not miss when they visit Kyoto is Nishiki Market. It's located on a long, covered street that is packed with small food stands, and it has been around for hundreds of years. Nishiki Market started out as a local fish market. Today, it attracts visitors from all over the world. Many types of food can be found there, but the really popular items are crab meat on a stick, sweet grilled* eggs, tofu skin, and different varieties of pickled vegetables. There are lots of desserts and sweets, too, including soy milk doughnuts and green tea ice cream. Many of the stands offer samples, so you can taste the food before deciding whether you want to spend money on it. Make sure to sample as many foods as you can at Nishiki Market. The flavors are truly wonderful, and it will be an adventure for your eyes, mouth, and stomach. The best time for you to visit there is around ten in the morning, when you can avoid the crowds. Hope you have a nice trip!

2. Juana: Hi, Ting. How are you? I saw people crowd in the store to buy fruit, cookies, candy, beef, pork, and drinks. What's happening?

Ting: What else did they buy?

Juana: They also had whole boxes of instant noodles and packages of canned peanut soup in their shopping carts.

Ting: Ah, I see. They were probably preparing for the Chungyuan Festival.

Juana: That sounds interesting. Tell me more about the Chungyuan Festival.

Ting: The Chungyuan Festival falls on the 15th of July in the lunar calendar*. We offer a great variety of foods and paper money to homeless spirits that do not have families to commemorate them.

Juana: That reminds me of the Day of the Dead in Mexico. For two days, people prepare marigolds*, candles, the bread of the dead, and decorated sugar skulls for their deceased family members. It's an important time when families get together and pray for returning spirits at cemeteries.

Ting: I'm surprised that we have such similar cultures.

Juana: I'm quite interested in the Chungyuan Festival. You'll have to tell me more after school today.

Ting: Sure. See you later. Have a nice day.
