Did you know that Halloween originated from an ancient Celtic* festival? This festival is called Samhain*, and it takes place on October 31 and November 1. In ancient times, during Samhain, the Celts celebrated the harvest and the arrival of winter. It was also believed that during this two-day period, the dead were able to enter the world of the living.

Besides the dead, fairies are also associated with Samhain. One example is Puca, a shape-changing ghost fairy, and another is Lady Gwyn, a headless woman dressed in white. To avoid being taken away by these and other fairies, the ancient Celts dressed up as animals and monsters to scare them away.

During the Middle Ages, Christianity spread throughout large parts of Europe, and church leaders turned Samhain into a Christian celebration. October 31 became known as Halloween but kept many of Samhain’s traditions, such as carving pumpkins and dressing up as monsters and animals. When the Irish went to America, they took these traditions with them, and Halloween soon became the popular holiday that it is today.
