二、閱讀測驗 (5 題 · 一題 3 分 · 共 15 分)

Those charming bottles of toiletries in hotel bathrooms may not be there for much longer. The Environmental Protection Administration (EPA) announced a two-phase bill to reduce the amount of waste produced by travel-sized toiletries, which include gels and liquids under 180 ml, combs, shower caps, and disposable slippers. The phases are meant to lower the impact on travelers by slowly introducing this change.

The first phase is something that some hotels have actually started to do in recent years. Instead of providing each room with disposable toiletries every day, some hotels list available basic amenities that guests can request. This means that guests will only take what they need, and thus produce less packaging waste. The bill simply makes toiletries an option instead of a necessity.

However, the second phase requires guests to pay for any toiletries they need the hotel to provide. On the one hand, the bill may encourage people to bring their own toiletries when they travel. On the other hand, as Taiwan Resort Hotel Association points out, most people will simply choose to pay to avoid the inconvenience of having to bring their own. It means that the bill will not have much impact on the environmental problems it is targeting. The bill may also upset guests who are used to getting these items for free.

It is good that Taiwan is following the global trend to reduce the environmental impact of toiletries waste. It may just take a little time for travelers to take on board.

- () 46. What is the passage mainly about?
- (A) What the EPA advises people to do to reduce toiletries in hotels.
 - (B) Why people will be charged more for using toiletries.
 - (C) When the new environmental policy will start to take effect.
 - (D) How hotel toiletries can be transformed into reusable ones.
- () 47. What does the word “amenities” in the second paragraph mean?
- (A) Places to live or stay, especially on holidays.
 - (B) Requests for payment of money owed.
 - (C) Things considered to be necessary to live comfortably.
 - (D) Formal statements of a new law.
- () 48. Which of the following comments is NOT the perspective mentioned in the passage?

- (A)  Adopting the new policy will worsen the conditions of the hotel industry in the long run.
- (B)  People can develop the habit of bringing their own toiletries with them when they travel.
- (C)  In phase two, free toothbrushes and shower caps are no longer available.
- (D)  Taiwan is in a similar direction with a ban on disposable toiletries in hotel rooms.

Just add hot water, and wait for three to five minutes, a piping hot bowl of savory noodles is ready! Instant noodles are one of favorite food for Taiwanese, as they are cheap and easy to make. However, a shipment from Vietnam and a separate and unrelated shipment from Japan were seized at the border when the FDA (Food and Drug Administration) found that the shipped instant noodles contained an alarming amount of pesticide – ethylene oxide.

Ethylene oxide, a widely used industrial chemical, is not allowed to be added in foods in Taiwan, since eating it regularly could increase the risk of cancer and damage the nerves located by the brain and spinal cord. The shipment of instant noodles from Japan had over 0.2mg/kg of ethylene oxide detected, and the seasoning packs in the instant noodles from Vietnam were detected to have almost double that amount of ethylene oxide in Japanese instant noodles.

Those imported food items that fail to pass Taiwan's regulations are either destroyed or are sent back to the countries of origin. In spite of that, over the past few months, there have been still a number of instant noodles imported from Vietnam and Japan that have failed the customs check. As one specific import company is responsible for about half of the failed checks from Vietnam, the FDA is now checking every single shipment of instant noodles this company brings in. Meanwhile, to deal with the pesticide found in Japanese shipments, the government significantly increases the percent of imported instant noodles checked.

() 49. Which of the following can be inferred from this passage?

- (A) The FDA will restrict more kinds of chemicals being added in foods.
- (B) The FDA will put a ban on all the imported instant noodles from Vietnam.
- (C) The FDA is likely to implement stricter regulations regarding imported instant noodles.
- (D) The FDA will be criticized for not alerting the public to the pesticide found in instant noodles in advance.

() 50. What will happen to the imported items that fail to pass Taiwan's regulations?

- (A) They will be sold at much lower prices.
- (B) They will be sent back to where they come from.
- (C) They will be distributed to certain famous charities.
- (D) They will be recycled and reused to make other items.
