I. Cloze 60%

a.) Did you ever wonder why people in some countries like to eat certain foods, such as roast mice, while these same foods are regarded as disgusting by people living in other countries? After some studies, experts come down to the three major factors 1. the choices people make when it comes to food, including customs, traditions, and geography.

It is widely believed that customs have a great effect 2. people's choices of foods, so do traditions. For instance, people in Korea 3. seaweed soup considered a must-eat birthday meal. Because of its good nutrition, Koreans think it beneficial for their health, making them live longer. Moreover, in Greece, people bake a special type of bread with a silver or gold coin 4. inside on New Year's Day. The person who finds this coin when eating the bread will be blessed with good luck for the new year. Similarly, dumplings in China are 5. the food that leads to wealth. Making dumplings on Chinese New Year's Eve is helpful in making more money for the coming year. This is the reason why this practice has been passed down for so many years. 6. customs and traditions, some foods are chosen simply because they fit the geographical features of a certain place. Take millet, for example. Millet flourishes well in hot weather, so it is widely grown as the main crop in tropical countries. 7., a cold climate in the North Pole leads Inuit to get fat and protein from whale blubber. 8. classic example is the potato which adapts itself to different climates, so it is a staple for those 9. in mountainous areas in which soils tend to be poor and barren.

Next time, if you have chance to visit other countries, the situation 10. you encounter may make you lose your appetite, but that's part of cultural difference. Just dig in, and you might be surprised by what you find.

II. Reading Comprehension: 12%

a.) Food is fundamental to human life, and healthy food can help us grow well and become stronger. If you want to keep in shape and stay healthy, first, you have to know what the food pyramid is and follow its suggestions. Below you can see an example of a food pyramid. The top section is the smallest one, the group of fats and sweets. Though fats and sweets are many children's favorites, they should avoid eating too much. On the other hand, the foods in the third section, meat and eggs, are important for us since the rich protein in them helps our body build muscles. The fourth section is dairy products, such as milk, cheese, and yogurt. Then there are fruits and vegetables. These are a good source of minerals and vitamins. The base of the pyramid is carbohydrates like cereals, bread, noodles, and rice. If you pay attention to the suggested servings of the various foods in the food pyramid and also get enough exercise, you can lead a healthy life!

21. According to the passage and the picture, which of the following is true?

- (A) Dairy products are good sources of vitamins and minerals.
- (B) People should eat more vegetables than rice.
- (C) Eating enough meat and eggs help us grow muscles.
- (D) Children should eat a lot of candies because they will become happier.

22. Which of the daily serving pie charts below is the healthiest?

23. Which of the following statements is TRUE about leading a healthy life?

- (A) In addition to following the suggested servings in the food pyramid, we should also do exercises to stay healthy.
- (B) As long as we do exercises, it doesn't matter how much fat and sweets we eat.
- (C) One should eat more almonds than cereals in a day.
- (D) In order to grow more muscle, one should drink a lot of soy milk and eat a lot of eggs.

1. Traditionally, mothers have usually been the ones who have looked after children in most societies. Fathers, on the other hand, have been expected to earn money to support their families. However, times are changing, and so are family roles.

These days, more and more women have decided they do not want to have children. There are many reasons for this choice. Many of them relate to the conflicts that come from being a woman and a mother at the same time. 2. Being a mother is anything but easy. In fact, it is a full-time job that is as challenging as any kind of job.

Mothers are always busy because raising kids puts such heavy demands on their time and their energy. 3. If the grandparents are not available to help or the family is not rich enough to afford a nanny, taking care of children is a 24/7 responsibility. When the duty falls on a mother alone, it means she never gets a day off. They may have no time to bathe or wash their hair. Indeed, mothers may exhaust their energy before they can make it through the day.

Of course, a mother giving all her time and energy to her children means there is little remaining for her to work on personal goals, like pursuing a career or enjoying a hobby. Likewise, working at a job outside the home is usually out of the question. The kids always have to come first. 4. Yet, even after giving up her other passions, hopes and dreams, a mother might feel she isn't doing enough. That's how deep a mothers' love is.

24. What does “out of the question” in the fourth paragraph refer to?

- (A) Something that isn't the correct answer.
- (B) Something that can't possibly happen.
- (C) Something that isn't related to the question.
- (D) Something that can't become the solution.

25. According to the passage, which of the following features did Lance's house NOT include?

- (A) A nice location in nature.
- (B) Excellent design.
- (C) Friendly neighbors.
- (D) Great experience of healing Lance's heart.

26. There are four women giving some thoughts about their lives. Please fill in the blank that matches the main idea of each paragraph. [第 26 題請在答案卷上作答]
- (A) Sandra: I think I will be single because being a mother is a challenging lifelong job. I want to just be me, not anyone's mother or wife.
- (B) Linda: I have become a stay-at-home mom for three years. Sometimes my husband says he will support me to take a piano lesson, but I'm more willing to spend time with my kids.
- (C) Cindy: Being a stay-at-home mom is so last century. Nowadays, more women bring home the bacon, too.
- (D) Lynette: Raising two kids really makes me tired. Every day I am busy with household chores as well as taking care of my children, not to mention having enough sleep.
