四、綜合測驗 (15 小題，每題 2 分，共 30 分)

1. There is just about a show for anything in Thailand—traditional dances, elephants, and now monkeys. Many people __(1)___ watching monkey shows but are unaware of the behind-the-scenes cruelty that takes place for these animals. The cruelty starts with the mothers, most of __(2)___ must watch their babies get tortured while chained to posts. Many of them are physically and mentally __(3)___ by being forced to jump through rings lined with knives or play with fire. Beatings regularly occur when these monkeys are trained, with their flesh __(4)___ constantly. And because they are taken away from their families at such a young age, they are lonely, stressed, and depressed. __(5)___ all of these factors, they often become mentally ill, circling around in their cages all the time, rocking back and forth, or even biting themselves and pulling their own hair. The suffering that these animals must go through isn't worth any amount of entertainment or money. Therefore, let's all work together to put a stop to this cruelty.

2. Adults' body language is a widely discussed topic, but what about that of babies? __(6)___ these young ones, even at the earliest stages of life, babies are already using nonverbal cues to show they are hungry, full, bored, or sleepy. The view of the world from a baby's perspective, __(7)___ we often find confusing, can still be understood in several ways.

To __(8)___ they are hungry, for example, babies will often open their mouth and turn their head from side to side. Another sign of hunger is if you __(9)___ them suddenly kicking or putting their hands in their mouth. __(10)___, or when they are full from eating, they may want to play. They may show this __(11)___ lots of eye contact. __(12)___ with their arms toward an adult is also one way of indicating they want some fun interaction. Once they get sleepy, however, they can't help but __(13)___ just like us adults. __(14)___, they might also frown and or arch their back as a sign. And, not surprisingly, loss of eye contact will also __(15)__. Although babies are too young to express themselves, they will often show what they want by using some of the same nonverbal cues as us adults. So watch for these, and you'll have a better understanding of the baby in your life!

五、閱讀測驗 (4 小題，每題 2 分，共 8 分)

1. Have you ever wondered where your next-door neighbor got that cute little puppy? You may not know that many of the puppies in pet stores come from “puppy mills,” or puppy breeding facilities. They are responsible for supplying animals to pet stores everywhere. Because puppies are only commodities* to them, puppy mills may pay little attention to the living conditions of these poor creatures. Many of these puppies live in dirty, cramped cages. What's more, the female dogs are made to breed again and again until they can no longer have puppies, at which point they may be killed or sold off. The mothers and their babies may not receive adequate nutrition* nor have access to quality veterinary* care. More often than not, they have health problems such as eye, ear, or skin infections, as well as blisters* from walking around on wire floors. Last but not least, since puppy mills are focused solely on how many puppies they can breed, many of the puppies have genetic* defects. These can be physical defects or even personality disorders that often make their future owners reject their dogs, leaving them at shelters or on the street. Now that you know about this problem, maybe you'll think twice before choosing to buy that cute puppy in the window. You might consider adopting a stray dog instead of buying a puppy from a pet store. By doing so, you can help to put puppy mills out of business.
