Let's look at the final stanza of Rudyard Kipling's "If—." We 25 the following words:

"If you can fill the unforgiving minute
 With sixty seconds' worth of distance run,
 Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it."

What 26 is being delivered through these words? To begin with, consider the word "unforgiving" 27 is used to describe a "minute." Here, Kipling is 28 the reality that time waits for no one. Rather, it forever ticks by*, taking no 29 on anyone. Lost time cannot be regained*; 30, to live a good life, one must embrace time by filling it with wholesome* activities. The 31 example given is "sixty seconds' worth of distance run." The idea is that running is a wholesome activity in how it exercises both the body and the 32 spirit. The final line, "Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it," is stating that people who choose not to waste their time on Earth 33 the greatest opportunities to be successful. Through these lines, Kipling delivers the powerful message that full use of one's time is 34. This is just one of the many positive lessons in "If—."

四、篇章結構(1 小題，每格 2 分，共 8 分)

- (A) To nurture lasting relationships, the father recommends honesty and cooperation.
 (B) Finally, the third stanza, also being the last two lines of the poem, does not contain any rhymes at all.
 (C) One of the poems he is perhaps best known for is a short but moving piece entitled "Advice to My Son."
 (D) He thus starts off, in the first stanza, by suggesting that his son treat each day as if it were his last.

Famous poet and short story writer Peter Meinke was born in New York in 1932. He has published a total of eighteen literary works and has won numerous awards for his poetry and short fiction.

35 This poem consists of three stanzas, the first containing ten lines, the second eleven, and the third just two. In addition to this unconventional* structure, the poem follows no particular rhyme scheme. In the first stanza, for example, Lines 1 and 4 rhyme, as do Lines 3, 6, and 8. So do Lines 7 and 10. In the second stanza, however, it is the first two lines that rhyme, followed by Lines 6 and 11 and then Lines 8 and 10. 36

As the title of this unusual work suggests, Meinke's aim in these 23 lines of free verse is to give some useful life advice to a child. 37 He also, however, advises caution, advising the young man to "plan long range" and to "go slow" rather than to live life in the fast lane.

This intense but careful approach is echoed at the start of the second verse, where the poet reminds his son that in addition to seeking brief but blissful* beauty in life—"the peony* and the rose"—he should also be practical. He should thus "plant... turnips* and tomatoes" among these beautiful flowers and develop habits and relationships that are sustainable. 38

Finally, in the short but sweet final stanza, Meinke urges young men to "always serve wine," meaning to always be welcoming, humble, sharing, and generous. This, in full, is the poet's "advice to [a] son."

註：unconventional 不因循守舊的 blissful 極樂的 peony 牡丹 turnip 薯蕷

五、混合題(素養題)每格 2 分，共 14 分)

1. The following poem was written by Canadian poet Edmund Vance Cooke more than a century ago. In it, Cooke asks the reader many interesting questions. It also offers some very useful advice on how to live well regardless of what life throws at you.

How Did You Die?

Did you tackle that trouble that came your way
 With a resolute* heart and cheerful?
 Or hide your face from the light of day
 With a craven* soul and fearful?
 Oh, a trouble's a ton, or a trouble's an ounce*,
 Or a trouble is what you make it,
 And it isn't the fact that you're hurt that counts,
 But only how did you take it?

You are beaten to earth? Well, well, what's that?

Come up with a smiling face.

It's nothing against you to fall down flat,

But to lie there—that's disgrace.

The harder you're thrown, why the higher you bounce;

Be proud of your blackened eye!

It isn't the fact that you're licked that counts,

It's how did you fight—and why?

And though you be done to the death, what then?

If you battled the best you could,

If you played your part in the world of men,

Why, the Critic will call it good.

Death comes with a crawl, or comes with a pounce*,

And whether he's slow or spry*,

It isn't the fact that you're dead that counts,

But only how did you die?

—Edmund Vance Cooke (1866-1932)
