- The top prize went to tenth-grader Arya Bairat in 2018 for creating the Sustineri. Like many inventions, Arya made the Sustineri to solve a problem. Arya discovered that less than 5% of the United States’ energy comes from wind power. Usually winds need to reach a certain speed to make wind power. However, the Sustineri can make power at lower wind speeds. Additionally, energy companies like it because it doesn’t cost a lot to make. The Sustineri even works when there isn’t a source of wind.
